

Call for Abstracts

13th Annual INAS Conference 2021 online (INAS 2021 online)
May 29-30, 2021

The 13th annual INAS (International Network of Analytical Sociology) conference will be held online (INAS 2021 online). It welcomes any papers, either theoretical, empirical, or methodological, that enrich fruits of analytical sociology. The conference aims to advance our understanding of social mechanisms and complex social dynamics.

Considering last year's abrupt postponement due to COVID-19, the organizers try to accept as many papers as possible. The conference is supposed to follow, despite its online format, previous in-person styles (programming hours, flat and active discussion, etc.). As originally planned in Tokyo, INAS 2021 is organized by a Japanese team.

Abstract submission: Send an abstract of 150-200 words by April 25 via <https://forms.gle/Hx7dRiXRZp54tDKP9>. Acceptance will be notified by April 30.
